SuperAdBlocker.com announces native FireFox support

Super Ad Blocker blocks pop-ups, fly-ins, banners, and sponsored search ads in addition to removing thousands of harmful spyware, adware and malware threats.

EUGENE, OR (Oct 11, 2005) – SuperAdBlocker.com, a Pacific Northwest developer of state-of-the-art ad-blocking solutions, announces version 3.0 of its award winning Super Ad Blocker application. Super Ad Blocker now provides native support for the popular FireFox browser in addition to Internet Explorer, AOL and MSN.

“FireFox has gained considerable popularity among security conscious surfers” said Nick Skrepetos, founder of SuperAdBlocker.com. “We wanted to provide native Pop-Up, Flash, Fly-in, Rich Media, Ad Banner and Sponsored Search ad blocking to further protect FireFox users.”

Super Ad Blocker is designed to complement the built in FireFox pop-up blocker which only blocks basic pop-up ads, but does nothing to stop the Flash, Rich Media and Spyware/Adware ads. Super Ad Blocker blocks all new forms of annoying advertising.

Super Ad Blocker also includes an advanced spyware/adware scanner to detect and remove thousands of harmful spyware, adware and malware applications including difficult to remove variants such as SurfSideKick3, PokaPoka, LOP and Nail.

Super Ad Blocker offers a fully functional 15-day free trial version which users may download directly from www.superadblocker.com. Super Ad Blocker is not advertising supported and contains no spyware, adware or other harmful software.

Super Ad Blocker is priced at $29.95 and includes updates for one year. Super Ad Blocker is available for download from www.superadblocker.com. Super Ad Blocker supports Windows 98, 98SE, ME, 2000 and XP.
